

Online discussions on same-sex marriage to be monitored

Felicity Caldwell

Show comments

SHARE

TWEET

MORE

A team of Queensland volunteers will scour neo-Nazi and other far-right or anti-gay web forums to monitor conversation around same-sex marriage and report those who overstep legal boundaries during the postal survey period.

The LGBTI Legal Service will run a project named Like Love, involving training and co-ordinating volunteers to monitor online forums, media and posters to ensure accountability where unlawful vilification may have occurred.

Advertisement

The Like Love project will run during the same-sex marriage postal vote over the next two months. Photo: AAP

MOST POPULAR

- 1 Father labelled 'sicko' for changing son's nappy in parents' room
- 2 $1 million to oppose gay marriage: 'Why do I persist with the Church?'
- 3 Brisbane tech companies recognised as industry front runners
- 4 Was it okay to show video of this woman being hit by a tractor crane?
- 5 Premier slams laughing stepdad who walked free after manslaughter plea

The Australian Bureau of Statistics' same-sex marriage postal survey began arriving in letterboxes this week, with the result to be published in mid-November.

LGBTI Legal Service president Matilda Alexander said vilification had increased on social media and in posters and there was a need to educate the community that certain forms of speech were unlawful.

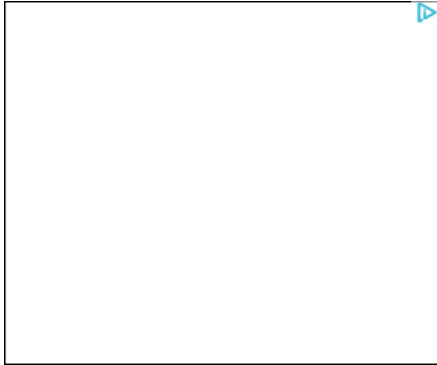

educate the community that certain forms of speech were unlawful hate speech, not justified by freedom of speech provisions.

RELATED ARTICLES

'F--- off Nazi scum': West End hits back at homophobic posters

"I think having a postal vote makes people feel like their homophobia is legitimised and they have a right to say whatever they want to say about LGBTI people – that's not the case under the law," she said.

A team of volunteers will be trained before monitoring "No" vote websites, neo-Nazi and extreme right wing and anti-Same Schools pages to ensure they were not breaking the law.

Advertisement

Ms Alexander said it was allowable to have a civil debate about whether or not you support gay marriage.

"You could say 'I don't support gay marriage because I don't think that gay people should be allowed to get married' but you can't say 'It's because they're all paedophiles' because that's the type of speech that incites people to hate a group of people on the basis of sexuality," she said.

"The test is whether it incites hatred and ridicule which is quite a severe test. It's not just any old comments that will incite hatred."

"It's not just any old comments that will incite hatred."

The information will be compiled and sent to the Anti-Discrimination Commission Queensland for investigation.

Last month, hurtful posters attacking LGBTIQ families were plastered around West End.

The community fought back and defaced the posters by ripping them down, drawing over and shredding them.

The federal government has also introduced laws protecting Australians who felt vilified, intimidated or threatened by another

LGBTI Legal Service president Matilda Alexander said there was a difference between expressing your opinion on same-sex marriage and unlawfully vilifying people. Photo: Supplied

Found the perfect home?

Find the perfect home loan

SEARCH NOW

PROPERTY NEWS

How to ease your children out of the ...

'Alarming': Sydney households need to ...

FOLLOW WA TODAY

BEST OFFER
GUARANTEED
AT THE OFFICIAL SITE

BOOK NOW

person's conduct during the same-sex marriage campaign, with civil penalties of up to $12,600.

It applied to advertising, leaflet materials and behaviour.

Under the Queensland Anti-Discrimination Act, there were already prohibitions designed to protect people from vilification.

The Queensland government has announced an extra $7000 for the Like Love project during the postal survey.

The funding comes from a contingency fund that was set aside to assist legal services responding to emerging community legal needs.

Queensland Attorney-General Yvette D'Ath said the LGBTI Legal Service expected there to be an increased demand for legal assistance during the postal survey.

"The Palaszczuk government is committed to ensuring Queenslanders have the help they need during this crucial time of the marriage survey, and we want to support the LGBTI community as much as possible," she said.

Last month, Queensland Health announced \$338,000 for four non-government organisations to protect the mental health of LGBTIQ community members during the postal survey.

The volunteer-run LGBTI Legal Service received government funding for the first time in April - $406,000 over the next three years.

If people spot questionable content, the LGBTI Legal Service has asked they take a screen shot and visit www.lgbtilegalservice.org.

Originally published on brisbanetimes.com.au as 'Online discussions on same-sex marriage to be monitored'.

YOU MIGHT LIKE

Best-selling art from renowned Australian and international artists

THESTORE.COM.AU SPONSORED

RECOMMENDED

powered by plista

SPORT

Forrest called ARU's bluff to save Western Force

NEWS

One of my best mates is voting 'no'. Can we still be friends?

HUFFPOST

Adelaide Security Breach Sees Secrets Stolen From International, $1.1 Trillion...

NEWS

Earring in Dodd accused's car was 'very popular', murder trial...

FROM THE WEB

RANGE ROVER

2017 Model Year Runout now on

SMSF

Are you up to date with TRIS for SMSFs?

SEA-DOO

Say Yes To Adventure With A Sea-Doo Personal Watercraft.

LJ HOOKER

Don't buy where you want to live!

UNHCR

Refugee children urgently need your help

MEMBERS OWN

Wait Up! There's a Non-Profit Healthcare Provider?

0 comments

LOG IN TO COMMENT

New User? Sign up

Sort comments by Oldest

BEST OFFER GUARANTEED ⓘ
AT THE OFFICIAL SITE

BOOK NOW

MOST VIEWED TODAY

QUEENSLAND

Father labelled 'sicko' for changing son's nappy in parents'

$1 million to oppose gay marriage: 'Why do I persist with the Church?'

Was it okay to show video of this woman being hit by a tractor

Tiahleigh Palmer's foster brother denied appeal on incest and

Mum and son died when a crane hit their car. The coroner wants

Woman picks up shark, throws it out of Cronulla ocean pool

AFL's clumsy efforts to rewrite its respect and responsibility policy

Father-of-three Didi sold everything he has to bet on bitcoin

'Red Baron' fishing boat seized, owner banned over stolen WA rock

Police investigate topless photo of woman wearing Richmond

Woman picks up shark, throws it out of Cronulla ocean pool

'Sorry I couldn't have looked after you more': Flowers for Chatswood

Dispute over 'marble palace' costs Salim Mehajer more than $1

Unsent text message counted as a will, court rules

Father-of-three Didi sold everything he has to bet on bitcoin

PRODUCTS AND SERVICES

AM Edition
PM Edition
Good Food Guide

WA TODAY

Sitemap
About Us
Contact Us
Advertise With Us
Text Version
Site Accessibility Guide
Privacy Policy
Conditions of Use

CLASSIFIEDS

Classifieds & Notices
Cars
Dating
Jobs
Real Estate
Commercial Real Estate
Oneflare
Nabo

OUR SITES

SMH
The Age
AFR.com
Adzuna
Domain
Drive
RSVP
Essential Baby
Home Price Guide
Weatherzone

WEBSITE FEEDBACK