Legal service's efforts lauded

A LEGAL service which helped reinstate funding for the Nundah Community Support Group has won a national award.

Community Legal Centres Queensland won the Social Impact Award at health industry superannuation fund HESTA's Community Sector Awards.

It successfully campaigned for increased government funding for its services, which provide support and advocacy to 33 legal centres.

The Reverse the Cuts campaign was initiated in response to proposed government funding cuts to its services, which included the provision of legal advice, information and representation to vulnerable people needing legal help.

Communications manager and Nundah resident Cathy Baker (pictured) said the centre started the Queensland component of its campaign so it could continue to provide services that support disadvantaged people.
